Sometimes a band arrives that captures the mood of the moment. Nestled somewhere amid all the synthetic, electronic sounds keeping Berlin booming lie 4 Minute Mile, a five-piece band drawing from the well of the pioneers of rock, grunge and indie rock. Their aggressive, agitated and assertive sound chimes with the disconnect many of us are feeling in these uncertain times. An impressive vocal delivery, swaggering guitar riffs and piano licks add some strut to the band's sound leaving you salivating at the prospect of catching them live.
